COUNTY COUNSELS IMPARTIAL ANALYSIS OF MEASURE Q FORMATION OF LAST FRONTIER HEALTH DISTRICT

"If this measure were adopted and the following Measure "R" was also adopted, there would be formed a New Special District known as the Last Frontier Healthcare District to perform the functions set forth in California Health & Safety Code §§ 32121 – 32137. Generally, the New District will assume operation of the present Modoc Medical Center. The leadership of the New District would be a five-member Board of Directors with the initial directors appointed by the Modoc County Board of Supervisors. The subsequent directors would be elected by the voters of the New District. As a condition imposed by the Modoc County Local Agency Formation Commission, the New District cannot be formed unless the voters also approve Measure "Q" which provides a source of funding for the New District."

Modoc County Creation of the Last Frontier Healthcare District, Measure Q (August 2010)

From Ballotpedia
A Modoc County Creation of the Last Frontier Healthcare District, Measure Q ballot proposition was on the August 31, 2010 ballot in Modoc County, where it was approved.[1]

The Last Frontier Healthcare District now owns and operates the Modoc Medical Center.

Voters also approved Measure R, a $195/year parcel tax to support the continued operations of the hospital.[2]

Prior to the passage of Measure Q, the Modoc Medical Center was owned and operated by Modoc County, and had been operating at a millions-a-year deficit. That deficit, in turn, was part of the reason that Modoc County's overall budget was running at a $12.5 million annual deficit.[3]

The newly-created hospital district was 400 miles northeast of San Francisco.
